Executive Committee of the Washington Whig Club.

A meeting will be held at the Hall, on Louisiana avenue, over Copp's Saloon, at 8 o'clock on Monday evening, August 9th. A full meeting is earnestly requested.

S. A. H. McKIM, Secretary, Aug 6-td [Int. and Rep.]

The Adjournment and the Campaign.

On the first day of next month the halls of Congress will be deserted, the Capitol will be silent, and the distinguished men who now occupy it will be on their journey homeward—but not to enjoy the repose so many of them need. In every Congressional district of the Union there is work to be done by these gentlemen, and few of them will shrink from its performance.

The people have heard and read of the acts and debates of the National Legislature, and of the two National Conventions. They have heard all that has been said of the candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency. They have heard of the crimination and recrimination of the politicians in this city. They have heard of every charge that has been made. They will ask the agents whom they sent to this city for the basis and the proofs of every such charge; and they will be answered. "We have known," they will say, "that Gen. Winfield Scott has long been the pride and boast of our country, and that our standard has ever been borne triumphantly above him; we have known him to be a man of quick and noble impulses, of undaunted bravery, of unsullied moral reputation; but we never knew that he was either a sectionalist, or a servile instrument in the hands of those who are. We never knew him to be a bigot, either in politics or religion. We knew him once to make an ill-considered declaration respecting the naturalization laws, but we observed also his manly retraction of the opinions expressed, and we felt a full conviction of his sincerity, which we never knew to be doubted. The friend of peace, and the wise counsellor, we have yet been accustomed to read of his mighty triumphs in battle, and of the wounds he has freely received in our country's cause; but he has of late been charged with want of skill as a general, and with cowardice as a soldier. If these things are true, give us the proofs of them."

There are many of the noble and gallant men of our national legislative councils who will lift up their voices in denunciation of these charges and of their authors—Whigs, whose lives would be freely periled in a cause so just as that in which they are now enlisted; and Democrats, whose adherence to party obliges them to oppose the gallant Scott, but whose truth and magnanimity forbid their assenting to the slanders heaped upon a patriot for whom they in their hearts cherish a flame of fervent gratitude!

But there are men who have stood up in the halls of Congress, and presuming upon the blindness, the ignorance, and the folly of the people, have proclaimed their hostility to Scott, and their belief in the base and miserable stories of defamation by which alone they hope to thwart the man of the people in his just and honorable aspirations. These men have a serious task before them, and it will be well for them to count its labors and its consequences to themselves.

There will be much for all to do, and fierce and ardent may prove the contest between opposing forces. For the result, however, we have no fear. The echo of many voices proclaiming their love and gratitude for a venerated sage, warrior, and patriot, will soon be heard upon a thousand hills. It will come upon every breeze like melody, and every valley upon our continent will be vocal with the cry. A new republican era will dawn upon its approach; men, honest, faithful, and just, will be called to rule over us; the day of "Democratic" chicanery and fraud will have passed away; and the true glory of our republic and of the happiness and prosperity of our people will have arrived; and in that day the people will remember with approval the stewards who have served them faithfully in the grand councils of the nation, while the unjust, the envenomed, and the deceitful will meet with a rebuke as effectual and severe as it will be merited and salutary.

How North Carolina Votes.

It is very remarkable that the Whig majority in this State for President is always greater than for State officers. Thus, in 1840, Harrison's majority was 12,594, though Morehead, two years afterward, was elected by 4,592. In 1844 Graham for governor fell behind Clay 792; and in 1848 he fell behind Taylor 701. Harrison obtained more than the Whig vote of the State in 1840, as Scott will in 1860. Should we come within 5,000 of electing Mr. Kerr at present, we shall regard Scott's chances of obtaining the State as good. If we elect Kerr, the Presidential question is decided to a certainty, so far as that State is concerned.

Hon. R. Yates, of Illinois.

We perceive by the papers of this State that the Whigs of Marshall county, who have been cut out from among the constituents of this gentleman, lately met in county convention and resolved that he merits their thanks for the industry with which he addresses himself to the duties of his station, and particularly for his unwearied attention to Western interests.

The Great Panoram.

Remember that next week will be the last in our city, and that there will be afternoon exhibitions on Wednesday and Saturday. No family should fail to witness this beautiful and instructive series of views.

Congress Today.

The Senate was not in session to-day.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.—Mr. DUNCAN, from the Committee on Commerce, reported the bill making appropriations for light-houses, and it was referred to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union.

The bill for regulating the fees and costs in the circuit and district courts of the United States was discussed during the morning hour.

[While Mr. MEADE was speaking, he was interrupted by a speech from a crazy man in the galleries, who, before concluding what he had to say, was put out by the officers of the House.]

The House took up the general appropriation bill in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union.

North Carolina Elections.

Reid, the present Democratic governor, was elected in 1850 by a majority of 2,774 votes over Manly, Whig. The contest is now between Reid, the present able and popular Democratic incumbent, and Kerr, Whig.

In 1848 the Whig governor was elected by a majority of 800 votes, and soon after General Taylor received the vote of the State by a majority of 8,000. The same increase over the Whig gubernatorial vote is now confidently relied upon.

We append all the returns that have come to hand:

In one district of Robeson county Kerr gains 10 votes. Reid's majority in the whole county in 1850 was 64.

In new Hanover county Reid has a majority of about 800 votes, being a gain for Kerr of upwards of 100 since 1850.

In Cumberland the majority for Reid over Kerr is 605, being a Democratic loss of 103.

In Halifax county it is reported that the Whigs are all elected, and Kerr's gain is 100.

In Northampton county, we are informed, the Maine law has been advocated by the Sons of Temperance, to which society the Whig candidates generally belong; and they have all suffered in consequence.

An Incident of the Conflagration of the Steamer Clay.

Samuel Steele, a school teacher of Albany, aged 70 years, was on the steamer when she took fire, and was one of the one or two hundred who were taken to the water or be consumed with fire. He saw many of his fellow-passengers jump into the water, struggle for a while, and sink to rise no more. He was one of the last four that left the boat. He jumped into the water feet first, and went down as far as his weight and impetus could carry him. When he came to the surface, he found that he could swim, although he had not made a stroke that way for 40 years. He pulled away toward the boat, and when he came underneath the guard, he seized a rope suspended from it, and not likely to be soon reached by the fire. Soon after he was surrounded by perishing women, who held on to him with a grasp of desperation. Several who could not reach him held on to those who did, and thus were suspended in a long string.

In about three hours, as the time seemed to him, people came with a boat and took them off, three or four at a time. Mr. Steele thinks that 15 persons were saved by that rope.

When he was about stepping upon the shore, a boatman said to him, "there is your canoe." Sure enough, there was his good-headed canoe, which had been presented to him by his son in the last hour of his mortal life. He had unconsciously held on to it through his perilous struggles.

The Pueblo Indians.

Captain Love, Mr. Whiting, and their guide, Mr. Collins, with the five Indians from New Mexico, were entertained last evening at the residence of the Hon. Mr. WRIGHTMAN, of New Mexico, together with a large company of gentlemen invited to meet them.

These are the most interesting people we have ever seen of their race. They are of unmixed descent, and possess all the characteristics of the Aztec race; yet they appear to be perfectly civilized, and very intelligent. Their language is the Spanish, as spoken in New Mexico, and their appreciation of everything they behold in our society is very clear and sensible. In their conversation (conducted chiefly through the interpreter, Mr. Whiting) every one manifested a lively interest.

To see and know the things respecting the people of the States, which they have heretofore only listened to with an incredulous ear, is the object of their visit.

The Gardiner Case.

The motion filed on Thursday for a continuance of trial over to the next term of the court was argued yesterday. In the indictment for forgery the motion was granted; and in regard to obtaining money under false pretences, the motion was held not decided. Fendall and May for the government, and Carlisle and Bradley for the defence.

Illinois.

"Never," says the Springfield Republican, "in the history of Illinois, have the members of the Whig party—the party of the constitution, the Union, and the people—been so fully impressed with the success of their cause. There is oneness in all their movements, and oneness in their hopes of triumphant success."

EASTERN BRANCH BRIDGES.—Congress yesterday adopted an amendment to the general appropriation bill, appropriating five thousand dollars to repair the two bridges over the Eastern Branch, connecting the District with Maryland.—Rep.

Mr. Bell, of Ohio, who was recently confined to his lodgings on account of sickness, we are happy to learn, has sufficiently recovered to resume the discharge of his duties in the House of Representatives.—Republic.

Luke Lea, esq., Commissioner of Indian Affairs, being about to leave the city for a few days, the President has appointed Charles E. Mix, esq., Acting Commissioner, until the return of Mr. Lea.

The Culpeper, Va., Observer learns that Mr. J. S. Barbour, jr., of that county, sold, on Monday last, a part of his farm (four hundred acres) at $18 per acre, which cost him $8.25 per acre a few years since.

A Quaker Runaway.

A team of four oxen got loose from their wagon, on the Avenue, this morning, and "put out," but they made a brief race of it.

A pleasure boat called the "Gen. Pierce" sunk of its own free will and accord in the canal to-day. "An omen!" as Amos Kendall used to say.

Sometimes our bricklayers use indifferent mortar; but the best will not adhere to dry bricks.

Affairs in Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN, August 7—12 m.

Very unexpectedly, we have no doubt, to many of our Democratic friends, who had boasted that the Whigs of Georgetown could not raise a Scott and Graham club, a large and enthusiastic meeting assembled last night in the Council Chamber, (after a notice of only a few hours,) for the purpose of thoroughly organizing a real working club. On motion of Paul Stephens, esq., W. H. Tenney, esq., was called to the chair, and W. G. Divine appointed secretary. On motion, a committee of five, consisting of Messrs. P. Stephens, John Crockett, Joseph Nicholson, W. H. Tenney, and Jenkin Thomas, were appointed to nominate officers for the club; and a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. James A. Burns, W. H. Craig, and J. Thomas, were appointed to draught a constitution and by-laws for its government.

After a short recess, the committee on nominations reported the following two, who were unanimously elected: For President, Jenkin Thomas; secretary, H. G. Divine. The meeting then adjourned to meet again on next Monday night, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of electing the balance of the officers, and to adopt the constitution. The meeting last night was spirited and enthusiastic—seventy enlisted under the banner of Scott and Graham. The language of all present was,

Best to breast maintain the ground, And let your deeds your words confound.

All persons friendly to the election of old Cool and Careful are cordially invited to be present on next Monday evening.

Our Union Hotel will be ready for occupation about the first of September. The company have spared neither pains nor money in putting every portion of it in first-rate order. Some five thousand dollars have already been expended upon it.

The Southern Methodists are erecting, near the Union Chapel, in Fairfax county, Virginia, a handsome house of worship.

During the week ending to-day, sixty boats have arrived by canal—twenty-four from Cumberland, with coal, and the others from different points, with flour, grain, and so. About the same number have passed up with assorted cargoes of merchandise.

The supply of beef cattle, sheep, and lambs, at Drovers' Rest, this week, has been fully equal to the demand. Prices of beef have ranged from $3.00 to $3.50 per 100 lbs. gross. Old sheep and lambs, $2.12 to $2.75 per head.

Flour and Grain Market.—During the last three days about 7,000 bbls. of flour have changed hands at $4—some lots of extra brands a shade higher. We note one sale of 1,000 bbls. of fancy brands at $4.40. Wheat arrives freely, and prices range from 80c. to 92c. for white and red. We note a sale this morning to the Columbian Mills of 6,000 bushels, at 80c. to 90c., white and red.

The merry plays of our factory bell, this morning, summoning the hands to duty, informed us that the repairs on this (not so very little) establishment were complete, and business again resumed.

The surest method we know of to dispargue the prospects of any place is a continual misrepresentation of them. Georgetown stands too high, in her own estimation at least, to require any fictitious bolstering!

EDWIN FORREST.—The New York papers speak of the conduct of Mr. Forrest, at the awful scene which attended the burning of the Henry Clay, as highly creditable to him. He was at his residence near by, and, seeing the unfortunate beings who were struggling in the water, he rushed into the river and succeeded in rescuing many from a watery grave, beside recovering the bodies of several victims.

Public Schools of Washington.—Examinations and Distributions of Rewards.

The examinations of the different public schools have all been gone through with, and the distributions of rewards have been made to the most meritorious of the pupils. I have attended all of them, and been much gratified at the improvement made since last year. I was more particularly gratified at the examination of the Third District school proper, under the care of Professor John Hall, principal, and Mr. J. T. Goldsmith, assistant. In this school, higher branches are taught than those of other public schools of the city—consequently the more advanced branches under examination. Mr. Hall is a highly accomplished mathematician, and Mr. Goldsmith is a qualified teacher of his duties. Mr. Goldsmith is also an excellent teacher, and takes a deep interest in the improvement of his scholars. Both of the teachers are much beloved by those under their charge. In the examination of this school, more than usual interest appeared to be felt. Messrs. Randolph, Poore, Abbott, Walsh, and Bonchoc, trustees, and many teachers and ex-teachers of academies and schools, were present, and took an active part in the examination. The classes examined in reading, writing, arithmetic, including calculations in multiplication and division by contraction, and geography, displayed marked abilities on the part of the scholars. The further advanced pupils in geography were then taken through the globe and differences in time, &c.; all of which questions were answered in the most prompt and correct manner.

The still further advanced classes were then examined on mechanics, powers, geometry, and algebra, and many practical and exceedingly difficult problems and questions were put to them by the competent gentlemen, teachers and trustees, and the answers of the pupils in almost every instance showed that they were well versed in their studies.

The examination throughout was the closest and most critical that I have ever seen in this city, and the result was such as to give the utmost satisfaction to trustees, examiners, and audience.

The penmanship and drawing, particularly the mathematical and ornamental, were of the most beautiful description; and brought praises from all who examined them. Indeed, several specimens of the drawing were of such high excellence as not to be excelled, if equalled, by any produced by the best academies in the city. The closing scenes of the examination were more than interesting—the young misses singing several beautiful songs, which was followed by a dialogue (Alexander the Great and his Thracian Robber), beautifully spoken by two little brothers—Henry and Stanley Schneider, aged about 11 and 9 years—who acquitted themselves so well as to call down frequent bursts of applause from trustees, teachers, and audience.

The examination closed by eloquent addresses from Mr. Abbott and Mr. Hardy, who paid the highest encomiums on the teachers for the manner in which they performed their duties, and on the scholars for their improvement.

The distribution of the honors and premiums of the school, and the primary ones attached to it, under the charge of Mr. McCathran, Miss Elvins, Miss Siddons, Miss Charles, Miss Trueman, Miss Masters, and Miss Ward, took place on Wednesday last, in the Methodist Church near the Navy Yard; but, in consequence of the inclemency of the weather, very few of the trustees, some of the teachers, and many of the pupils were prevented from attending. Hon. B. F. French, President of the Board of Aldermen, delivered a most eloquent address, after which the honors and premiums were awarded.

A very beautiful silver cup to Miss Martha Champion, and silver medals to Ellen Higgins, Edward Stanley Schneider, (one of the little boys who took part in the dialogue at the examination,) Miss C. C. Sims, and John Pons, of the Third District proper; and many diplomas were also awarded to other scholars of this district. A list of these has, however, been heretofore published, and also the honors awarded to the primary schools connected with this district, and it is therefore unnecessary to recapitulate them.

In conclusion, I would say, that if Congress should give a very fair appropriation to the public schools, which I think they will, it behooves our trustees to create a High School, in which the higher branches are taught; and I think they could not place a more competent gentleman at the head of the mathematical department than Professor FILL, who is every way qualified to fill this position.

We learn that the Secretary of the Treasury returned to the seat of government on Tuesday, in improved health.

We are requested to state that the Rev. J. C. SMITH will preach his concluding sermon to the fremens of Washington, at 4 o'clock to-morrow.

When Jackson and Adams were candidates for the Presidency, they exchanged, as Jackson paper, in Pennsylvania, charged Adams with having for his wife the daughter of George III. An Adams paper conceded the fact, but stated that Jackson married two of them! Moral: it is no use to deny a partisan statement, but you must tell a huge story yourself, and let the story of your enemy go.

NEW DEFINITIONS.—State-manship—Making a speech against the widow of General Harrison. Generality—Giving a boy a cent's worth of candy.

Warriorship—Fainting at the sight of a battle. Nationality—Voting against the improvements of our rivers and harbors.

Progress—Nominating a man for President whose life is an illustration of these definitions. [Chicago Journal.]

ROBERTSON, AGAIN!

ALL that are in favor of the Senate's righting their own wrong done to me, read my Petition which was circulated in the Senate on the 6th instant, and throughout this city to-day, and then address me through the Post Office, Washington, D. C., rendering that mutual aid necessary to keep the matter going now and forever, until justice is done, and the Senate is abolished. One of the two most important reasons, or I do not know what is such a great crime as was committed on me, and sanctioned by the Senate. I am in truth the friend of God, and all that is good. WHITEHOUSE'S GALLERY OF PREMIUM DAGUERRETYPES.

Over the store of Duwall & Bro., between 4th and 5th streets, Pennsylvania avenue.

This establishment possesses many advantages over others in this city, being built expressly for Daguerreotypes. It contains one of the finest skylights in this country, and the best arranged; for this reason artists prefer Daguerreotypes taken at this establishment above all others.

There are now on exhibition some of the largest Daguerreotypes in the world, taken at this establishment, and ready for sale at a low price. The collection is free to the public at all hours of the day.

Awarded the first medal at the late Fair of the Maryland Institute in 1860 and 1861, and a premium at the Great Exhibition at Castle Garden.
